NHS DIGITAL PAY BALLOT 2023 CLOSING NOON 17 MARCH

The Scottish government has made a final NHS pay offer for 2023/24. UNISON Scotland's health committee has recommended members ACCEPT this offer.

This pay offer would see the majority of Scotland's health workers receive an average of 6.5% increase on pay as well as a 1.5% one-off payment.

If accepted, it would mean that over two years UNISON will have secured a pay rise of over 14% for most registered nurses, and almost 20% for the lowest paid workers in the NHS.

The Scottish government has also made a commitment to review the Agenda for Change terms and conditions - with a focus on recruitment, retention and rewarding the NHS workforce.

You can view the full offer online at www.unison-scotland.org

You are being asked to vote in a consultative digital ballot and your health committee are strongly recommending you vote to ACCEPT this offer. If you have not received your ballot email, please check your spam folder or call UNISON Direct to update your details on 0800 0 857 857.

However you vote, it's important you have your say.
Make sure you vote by noon on 17 March.
