

I am more than my disability

#FairnessNotFavours

Myth 2

Disabled people can only do simple, repetitive jobs or light duty work

FACT: This is not true. Disabled people have the same skills and capabilities for a wide range of jobs as non-disabled. Like non-disabled, this varies from person to person. In Scotland, 125,000 disabled people of working age hold a degree level qualification or above.

Yet, disabled people with a degree are less likely to be employed than non-disabled without one. (Scottish Government, 2018)

Join online joinunison.org or call free 0800 171 2194

