

ETHICAL CARE CHARTER

Inverclyde Health & Social Care Partnership has formally adopted UNISON Scotland's The Ethical Care Charter.

By adopting this Ethical Care Charter, the partnership has become one of the first in Scotland to achieve trade union recognition for its high standards in homecare and conditions for home care workers.

Working under this charter will improve the quality and sustainability of care for all users of the home care service. We recognise that both Inverclyde Health & Social Care Partnership and Inverclyde Council are striving to provide fair working conditions for home care workers and higher quality standards of care for elderly and vulnerable people of Inverclyde.

Inverclyde Health & Social Care Partnership and Inverclyde Council has formally adopted this Ethical Care Charter after UNISON Scotland recognised the emphasis on recruiting and retaining homecare staff. This Ethical Care Charter will help ensure the sustainability of Inverclyde home care services.

UNISON is pleased to recognise the commitment made to improving the lives of those who provide and receive home care in Inverclyde.
